- Ying Sa, CPA, and CEO of Community CPA, selected to serve on the National Taxpayer Advocacy Panel, a Federal Advisory Committee to the Internal Revenue Service (IRS)
- Sa is the only member representing Iowa on TAP.

Des Moines, IA – CPA Ying Sa and CEO of Community CPA has been selected to take part of the Internal Revenue Service’s advisory council, called the Taxpayer Advocacy Panel. This group helps identify issues important to taxpayers and to provide perspective to the IRS’ key programs, products, and services.

“I will work with our local Taxpayer Advocates to bring solutions to the table,” says Sa, “and I look forward to making contributions to Taxpayer First initiative, which is a priority at the IRS.”

TAP is diverse demographically and geographically. Sa is honored to be the only Iowan to serve on the focus group for a three-year term. She will devote 200-300 hours volunteering, examining taxpayer suggestions and forming proposals to the IRS, and engaging in public outreach.

Ying Sa is the founder of Community CPA and Associates and has been in CPA practice since 1998. Ying served on the Iowa Board of Accountancy from 2012-2018, and her experience includes VP of Controllers at Wells Fargo Financials and CFO of Iowa Manufacturing Extension Partnership. Ying is honored with numerous awards including Thomas Reuters’ 2019 Luca Pacioli Accounting Award, SBA 2016 Iowa Minority Small Business Champion of the Year Award, the Greater Quad-Cities Hispanic Chamber of Commerce’s 2015 Small Business of the Year Award, and as one of the Business Record’s 2010 Women of Influence.
